

Lexis Advance Quicklaw – Trial extended to June 30th with updated link for new subscribers:

LexisNexis Canada is pleased to announce that it is extending the free trial program to June 30th. LexisNexis will continue to provide Ontario licensees of the Law Society access to Lexis Advance Quicklaw and will upgrade the service to Lexis Advance Quicklaw Comprehensive. Although the standard Lexis Advance Quicklaw package available through the LIRN libraries is a robust offering, we understand that libraries are experiencing challenges as access to print materials unique to the physical libraries are currently not accessible. Lexis Advance Quicklaw Comprehensive provides access to all texts and treatises currently available in electronic format through Quicklaw.

Complimentary access for June can be activated through a new self-registration process which has been implemented to expedite access. There is an updated link for new subscribers so please use this rather than the previous link: <https://signin.lexisnexis.com/lnaccess/UserRegistration?regCode=5nfe2yq>

Complimentary access credentials will be issued directly from the online form and fulfilled with the complete Lexis Advance Quicklaw Comprehensive package immediately.

You also have free access (no subscription required) to their COVID resources to help legal professionals manage matters such as contractual and employment issues in light of the Covid-19 pandemic through the Lexis Practice Advisor Coronavirus Guidance Document Kit. We are also helping the profession stay current on the impact of Covid-19 in the legal community with a special section within The Lawyers' Daily to provide up-to-date coverage of this fast-evolving issue. It may be accessed free of charge at TLD COVID-19 Updates page.
